

LEGAL AND DEV LEADS

3 questions to ask before Firefly output goes into an ad

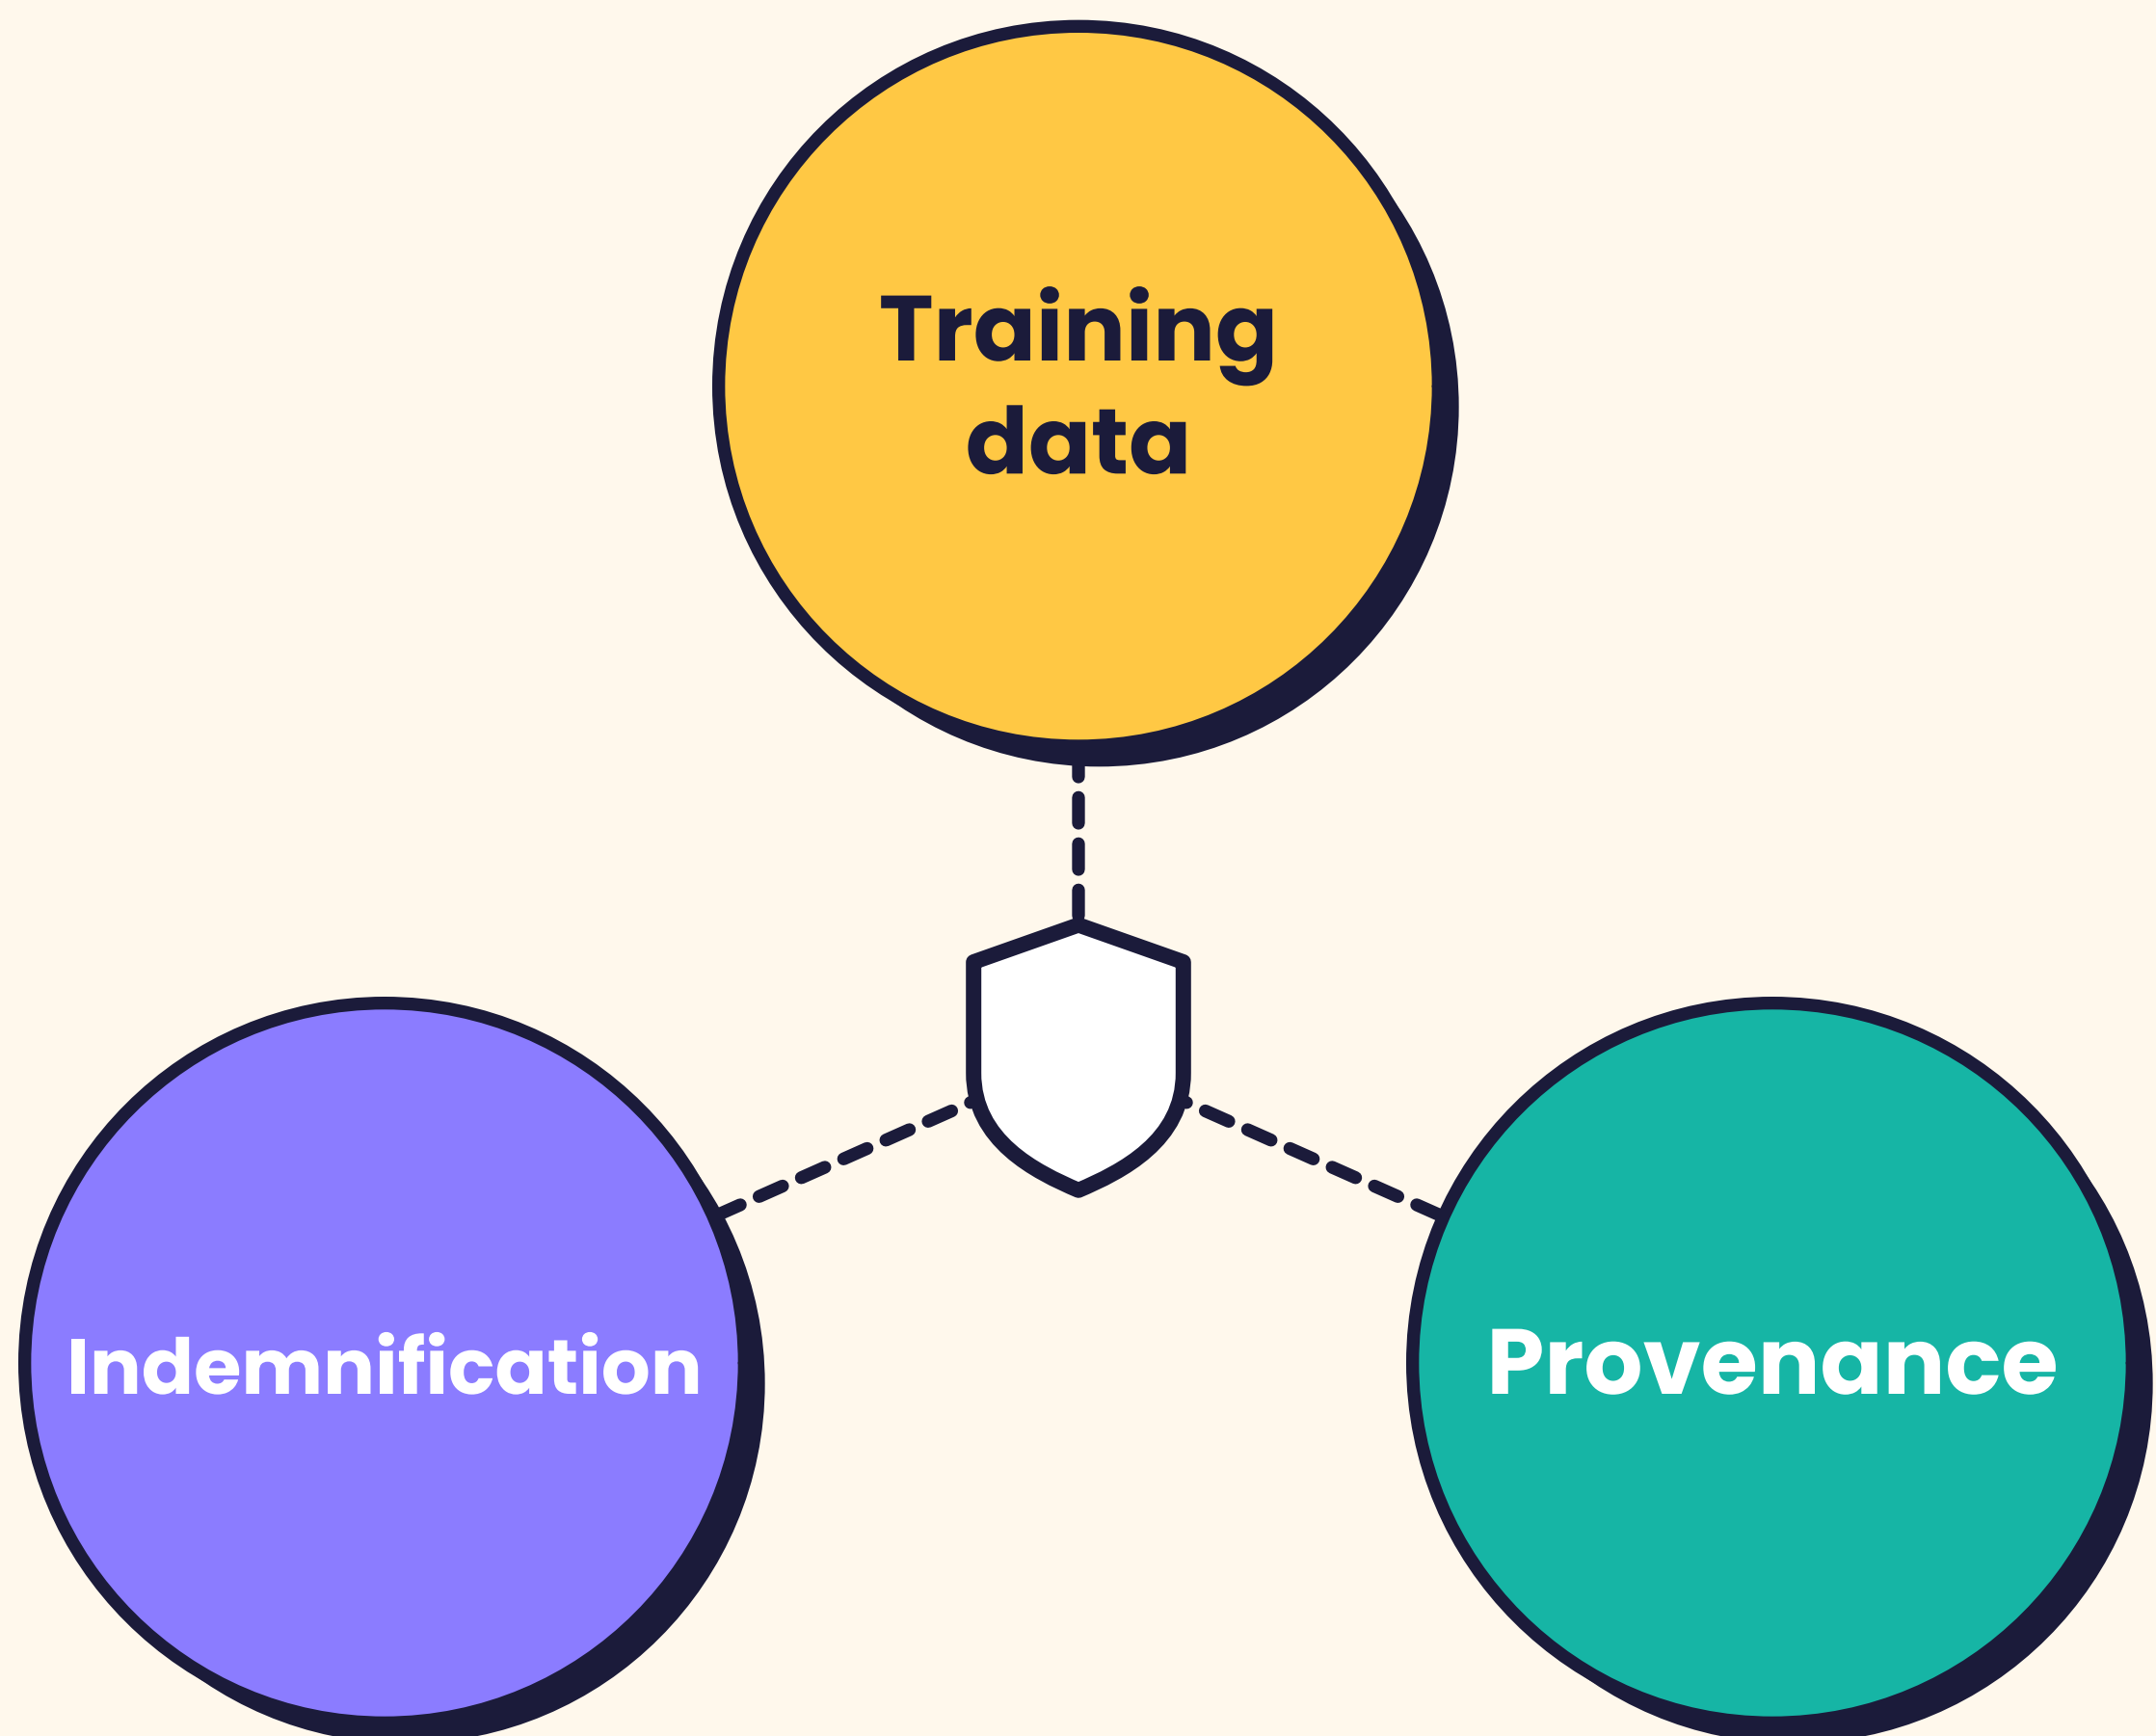

Training data

Indemnification

Provenance

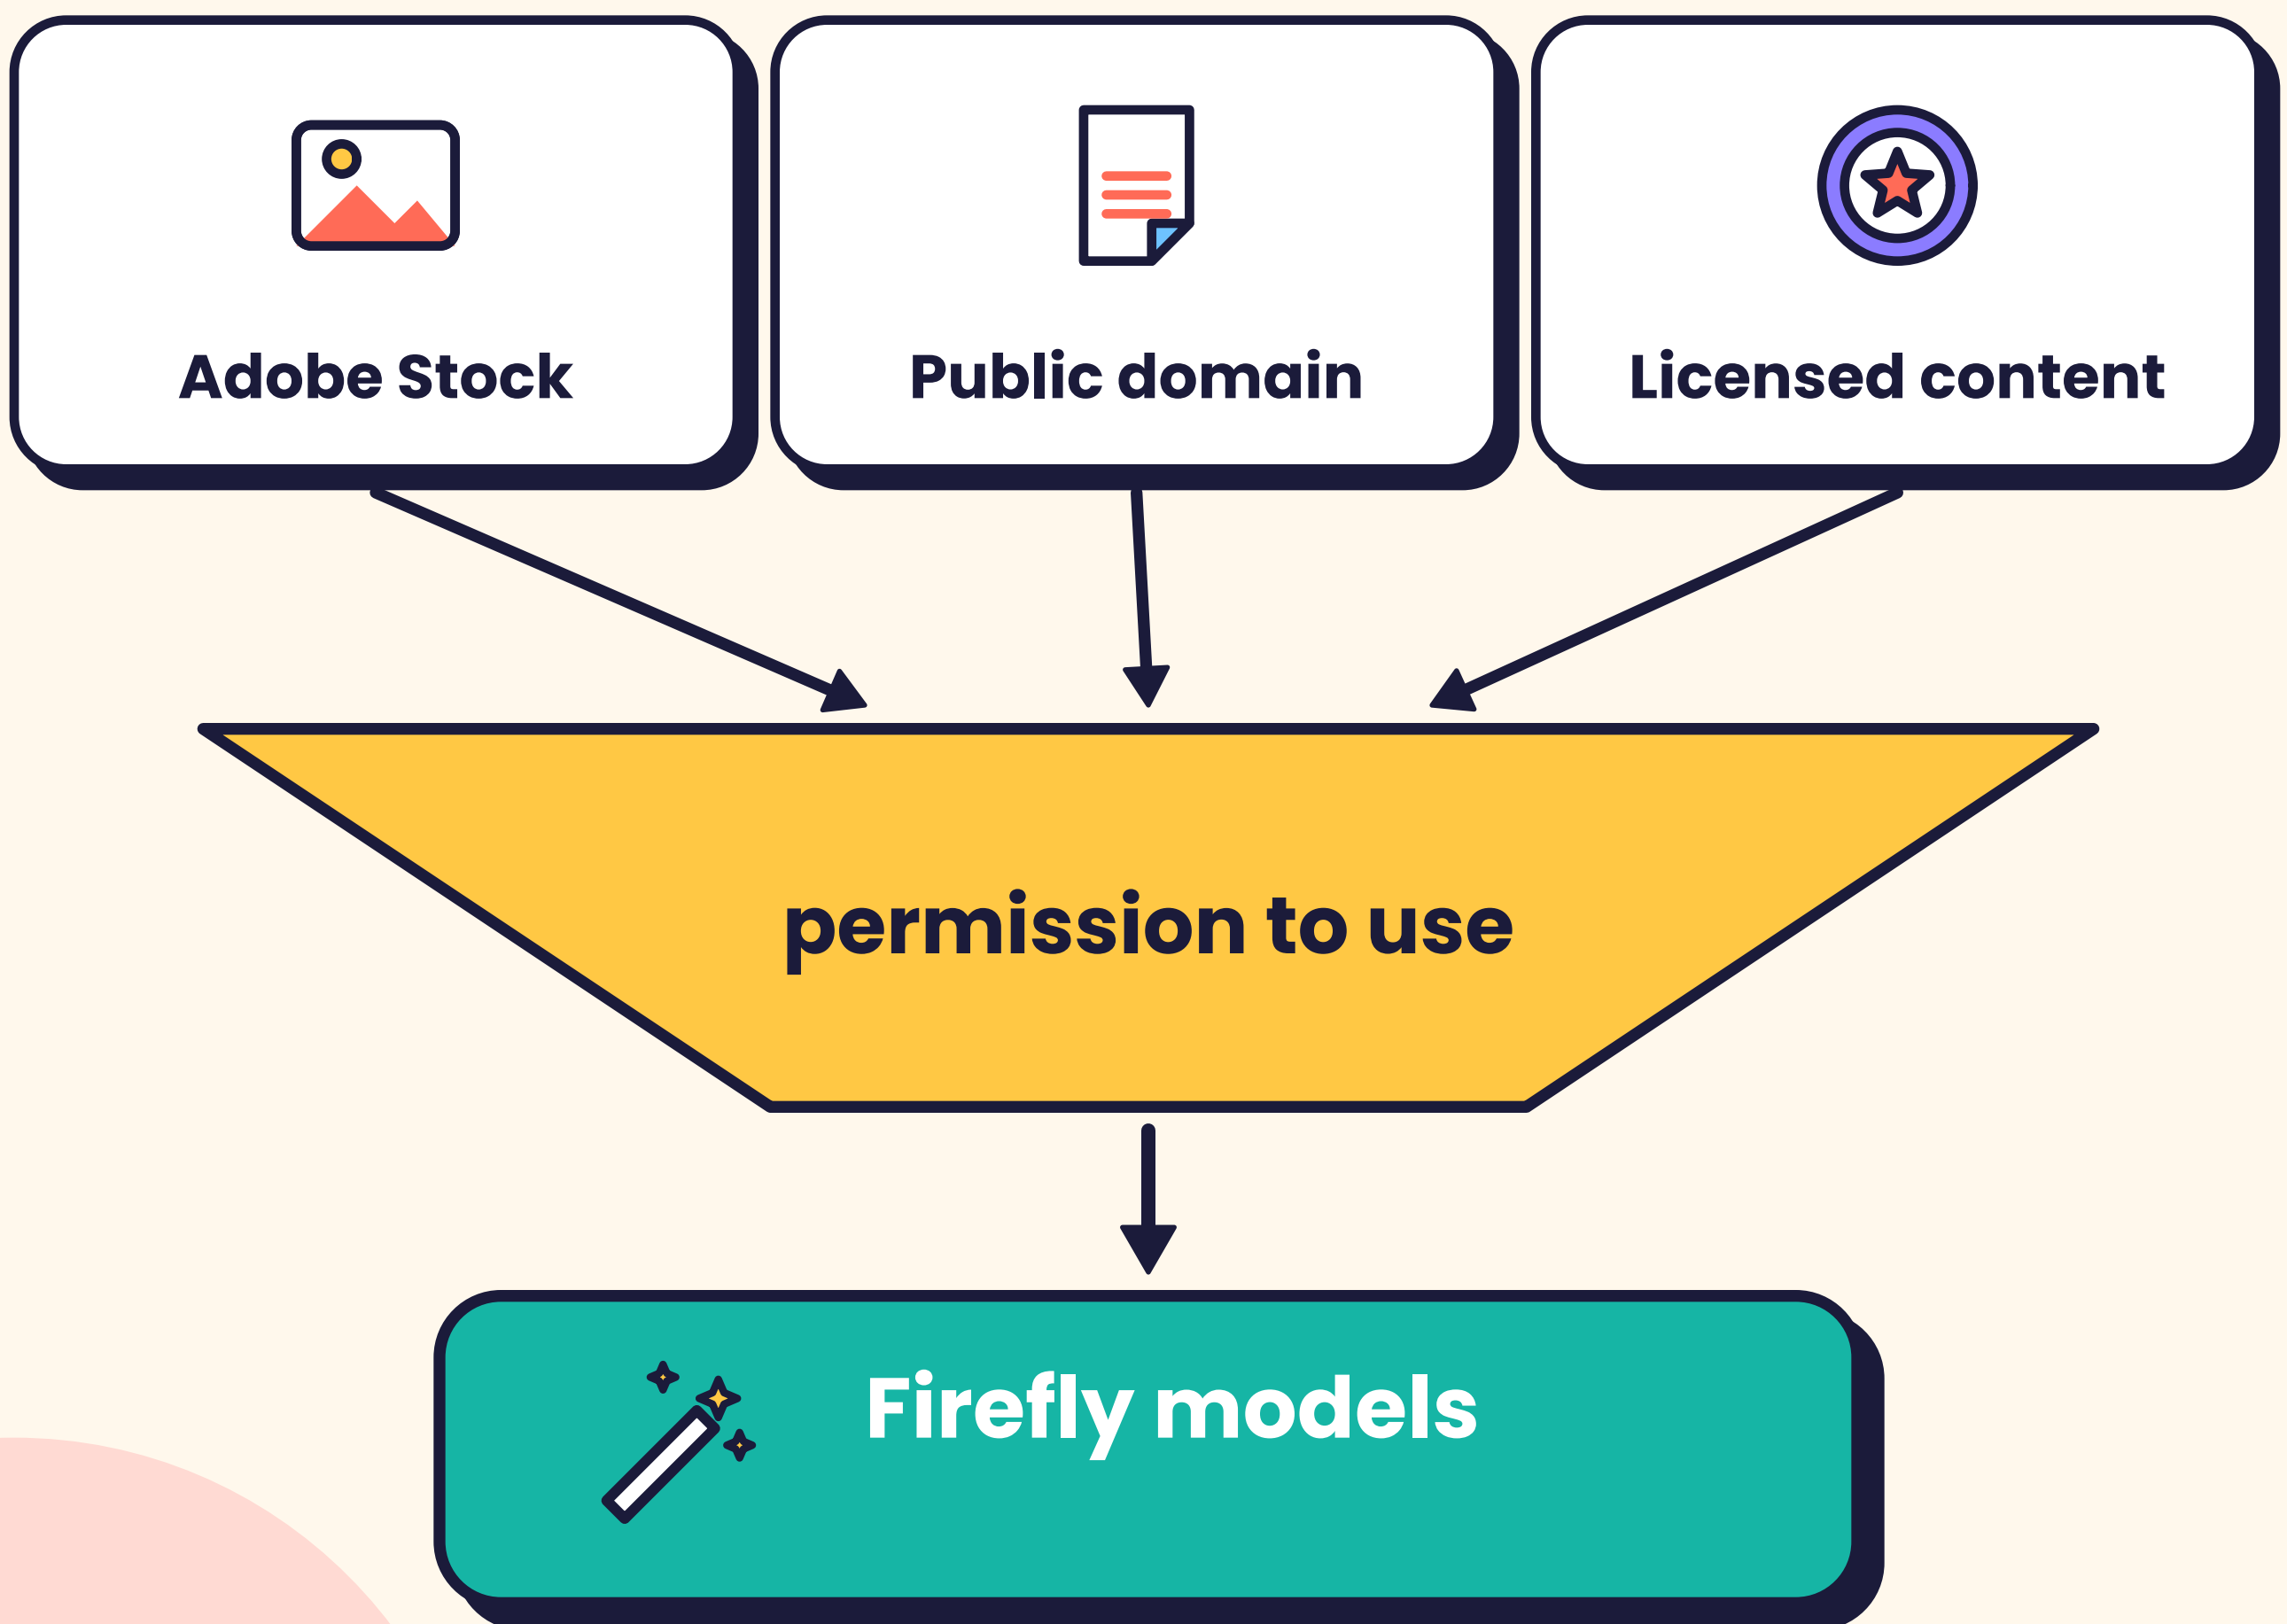

One question, three parts

"Is it commercially safe?" splits into:

1 What was it trained on?

Adobe's stated position:

Trained only on content Adobe has permission to use, per Adobe.
Not on your proprietary data.

2 Who stands behind the output?

1

Enterprise agreement

2

Buy the indemnification entitlement

3

Covers select Firefly outputs

4

Terms and a liability cap apply

It's a contract entitlement, not a default. Your counsel decides what's covered.

3 Can you show where it came from?

Generate

Content Credentials applied to fully generated assets

Resize

Do the credentials survive? Test it.

Re-encode

Do the credentials survive? Test it.

Publish

Can a viewer still inspect them?

In the Image5 API, CAI output settings are no longer configurable.

4 Dev homework

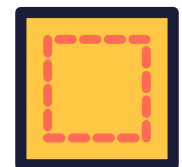

Four steps, one afternoon.

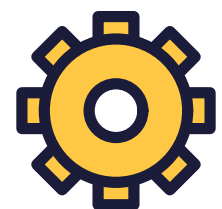

Generate one asset

Resize it

Re-encode it

Check the credentials. Tell legal what you found.

What does your legal team ask first?

Answer in the comments. I read every one.

Training data

Indemnification

Provenance

Something else

That's all eight parts. Tell me which one to go deeper on.